RACE FOR LIFE.

Runaway Car Kills Five Persons Near Reading, Pa.

A CANADIAN APPEAL

To Work Against the United States' Interests for those of Canada.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 22. Ligue Des Patriotes held a meeting last night at which Mr. Girard, member of parliament for the district of Rouville, Quebec, delivered an address. He dwelt on the subject of reciprocity and spoke strongly against the McKinley bill. He begged his compatriots to adopt protective tariffs and to counteract votes in such a way that the gates of the United States might be open to Canadian products and not be barred by the McKinley bill or any similar measure. He characterized the McKinley bill as sure to prove the ruin of Canada.

An Able Reply.

Dr. S. T. Germain replied for the league that though Canadians in this country desired to see their mother land prosperous, still in coming to the United States they had foresworn allegiance to any other country and must stand by their oaths. But, he said, if there comes a day when national bankruptcy occurred in Canada and Orangism and Anglo Saxon hatred had made the position untenable, then there is on the southern side of the 45th parallel of latitude a country that will receive Canada. This speech provoked the wildest enthusiasm.

LARGE LOSS OF LIFE.

Terrible Destruction by a Cyclone.

GENEVA, Aug. 22. It is reported that 150 lives were lost in a cyclone in the canton of Vaud Wednesday.

GREAT DEPRESSION

Found in Manufacturing Circles in Canada.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 22. Secretary Howard, of the Spinners' Union, who has just returned from a trip of the British Provinces, says he found depression in manufacturing circles there worse, if anything, than it is in the States.

BUSINESS AT A STANDSTILL.

At other Strike of Railroad Men.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22 All the firemen and switchmen employed by the Union Stock Yards Switching Association went on a strike for higher wages this morning. At noon forty engines, having two men each, were lying idle at the Forty-seventh street yard in consequence of the strike and 120 switchmen were also idle. The switching or transfer system is the largest in the country as the association does all the work for the immense packing houses at the yard, consequently all the work at the packing houses is at a stand still. The trucks are filled with ligneous trains of fresh meat which were destined for outside points.

IDAHO.

Republican Nomination for Governor.

BOISE CITY, Aug. 22. At the Republican State convention yesterday George L. Sharp was nominated for Governor.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

Portsmouth Visited by Midnight Marauders.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 22. Early this morning it was discovered that the clothing store of Charles E. Simpson and the grocery and provision store of H. L. Garrett & Son had been entered by burglars. Shortly before the discovery was made, Officer Quinn had noticed Albert Hamm, a dissolute fellow, hanging around Simpson's store, and ordered him home and immediately started after and arrested him. On being searched at the police station, some necktics and gents' furnishings taken from the store were found on his person. Garrett's store was entered by another party who, after smearing the safe with soap, drilled a hole in the bottom door and blew it open.

The amount of money secured is not known, but Messrs. Garrett say that several hundred dollars were in the safe. The job was done about 3.30 and it is thought the thieves took the 6 o'clock Pullman for Boston. Two well dressed strangers, apparently English, have been in the city a day or two, and several acts on their part direct suspicion toward them.

Later it was reported that the store of Hanson Hoyt, on Christian shore, was broken into and entered and ten dollars in money and small articles secured. It is thought this break was made by still another party and some one well acquainted with the premises.

A THIEF CAUGHT.

He is Wanted in Boston.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22. William Haddie, from Lowell, Mass., was remanded in the police court here, to-day, for a term of fifteen days, so that requisition papers may be obtained for his transfer to Boston. Haddie, it appears, went to Boston a few days ago, and robbed a boarding house, taking a gold watch and chain and $300 in money. The Boston police traced him to this city and last evening, on the Bowery, Inspector Byrnes' men arrested him. A pawn ticket for the watch and chain was found on him.

KENTUCKY.

Mob Violence.

LEXINGTON, Aug. 22. Jno. Henderson, a negro, who killed Gilbert, Satterwhite, last Monday night, was lynched near Versailles at 3 o'clock yesterday morning.

DISHONEST CLERK

Arrested for Stealing Goods.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22. George W. Curtis, formerly clerk in the dry goods house of John T. Plummer & Co., which failed recently, is a prisoner to-day at police headquarters, charged with stealing $6,000 worth of goods. The complainant, Robert M. Maywell, manager of the New England Company, a wholesale cloth and general furnishing house on Grand street, says that he has been missing goods from the store for two years, but that only during the last two months has he been able to get any evidence against Curtis. He says that Curtis has been in the habit of taking goods from the store and selling them to pawnbrokers. Curtis has been arrested on the complaint of Maywell, and will be arraigned in the Tombs police court to-day.

STRANGE PROCEEDINGS.

Senators Will Not Consider the Election Bill Until the Next Session.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22. The committee appointed at the Republican Senatorial conference last night to arrange an order of business to take the place of the Quay resolution has been in session since the Senate met.

The committee reached a conclusion upon the order of business, but some details remain to be settled. The Tariff bill, after a date to be fixed, is to be considered under the five minutes rule until a vote is taken. The date of this has not been decided and will be subject to arrangement with the Democrats. It is expected a vote will be reached about September 15th. After the Tariff bill is then other measures named in Senator Quay's resolution are to be taken up and disposed of. The Election bill will come up the first thing after the assembling of Congress in December, but the time at which the vote shall be taken is reserved for future consideration. The arrangement for the disposition of this bill, it is said, does not depend upon the consent of the minority but is wholly a Republican scheme, and includes a change of the rules by which the previous question may be ordered.

ARBITRATION A FAILURE.

No Conclusion Reached at the Conference in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22. Commissioner Donovan of the State Board of Arbitration had a conference with Vice-President Webb to-day, but there was no conclusion reached. There is very little hope of a settlement of the strike by means of arbitration. In case no settlement can be reached here Mr. Donovan will return to Albany where a full meeting of the State board will be held.

Arthur's Reply.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 22. When Chief Arthur of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers was asked this morning what reply he wished to make to Powderly's open letter addressed to him through the Associated Press he said he would be pleased to give the information he sought. The letter, however, must be addressed to him officially, as he never paid any attention to letters such as was published this morning. The position of the engineers will be well known but he would be glad to emphasize it if Mr. Powderly addressed him a letter in an official way.

No Change Apparent.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 22. No new developments in the situation of the strike are apparent to-day.

A committee of strikers is soliciting subscriptions to-day among the merchants of the city to sustain them in the fight.

Dr. Thomas received this week from St. John, a fine full blooded cocker spaniel pup, which is a very intelligent and promising dog.

The date for the tennis tournament has been fixed, and it will occur on the Prentiss court, on State street, next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

Miss Hattie Cutler and her sister, Mrs. Kate Pillsbury, of Michigan, formerly residents of Brewer, are visiting friends here, among whom a warm welcome always awaits them.

The schooner Mary Stewart has completed loading her cargo of 330 tons of ice from the J. F. Woodbury Ice Company and is taking a deckload of lumber, after which she will sail for New York.

Messrs. Hunt Jewell and Webber are tearing down the stacks which they erected above the dam to hold their crop of ice last winter, as they have shipped it all, their total output being 1,300 tons.

The Norombega Ice Company have shipped their last cargo and their stacks above the dam are now empty, having furnished 2,100 tons to keep cool the people of cities less fortunate than we.

The physicians say that the craze for unripe fruit is as prevalent and if anything, more so, this year than on previous years. People should be extremely cautious about eating green fruit. They may regret it.

The managers of the Heclas are trying to arrange a game with the Rocklands for some day the coming week. It is hoped they may do so as it would be a pleasure to see two such good teams play a game and it would doubtless draw a crowd.

Mrs. A. A. Richards and little son, of Sanford, Fla., who has been spending two weeks visiting friends in this city, left on the Katahdin yesterday for Camden, where they will spend a few days and then proceed directly to their Southern home.

It is reported that a new summer resort has been erected on the banks of Burr's brook, near the dam, which is of a rather original style of wigwam and may yet be known as a favorite resort of anglers and others who wish shelter from the sun or rain.

A number of inquiries have been made as to whether the concert, which was to have been given in the Congregational church last Sunday evening, would occur to-morrow evening. Upon inquiry we learn that it has been given up and will not occur.

The work on the draws of the two bridges is nearly completed, only a few things being necessary to place them in first-class condition for opening to allow vessels to pass through. It is reported that the first of Mr. Lincoln's fleet is to pass through and up the river at high tide this afternoon.

The question of how the streets shall be lighted is now an absorbing topic of conversation in our city and it seems to be a generally expressed hope that the City Government will arrive at some satisfactory arrangement with the Electric Light Company so that once more we shall have some light where now it is total darkness, the old oil lamps not being used, which renders it disagreeable, especially on a dark night.

The work on the water works extension, so far as relates to the laying the pipes, has been discontinued for a day or two, owing to the lack of pipe. The main has reached the city farm and is all covered to that point and the trench dug for some distance further, but several sizes of pipe having given out and the additional pipe ordered not having arrived, it was necessary to stop laying until its arrival, which is expected at any time.

An unusual and curious phenomenon was seen at Green Lake recently by a couple of gentlemen from this city who were fishing there. While out in a boat and passing through the "narrows" opposite Hedgehog Camp, a storm which was quite severe at the time, caused a well-defined current through the place and well into the wide part of the lake, which was very curious as a current in a still body of water is seldom seen.

Capt. John T. Gilman, of this city, vice-president of the 22d Maine Volunteers Infantry Regimental Association, has issued the announcement of their second annual reunion at Camp Benson, to occur on the seventeenth of next month. Reduced rates will be obtained on the Maine Central and Bangor and Piscataquis railroads and all comrades are invited to attend and bring ladies. The train will leave Bangor at 6.40 A. M., and a very pleasant day is looked for.

A couple of energetic anglers who left this city for a fishing trip to Field's Pond, about one day recently, met with rather hard luck on the road. They went by way of the woods road, lost their way and themselves in a bog, but finally got to the pond, caught a few stringers of fish and started for home but had to tramp it in the midst of a pouring rain, so that they were a sorry looking couple when they arrived here, but as though they got what they deserved for their trouble. [illegible]

Miss Mary E. Glidden, book-keeper for Sparks, Wentworth & Woodbury, leaves this morning for Dover, where she will spend a week visiting friends.

Mrs. Charles French, while on an errand for medicine to Dr. Thomas' house Thursday night, in the darkness suddenly fell off the walk to the ledge below, where they are lowering the sidewalk, and was hurt quite severely. On a dark night light is at a premium at such places.

The work on the new piece of the water main across the bridge, where it crosses the draw, is all finished and the pipe which was on the draw removed. It did not take as long as was anticipated, the water only being shut off for about two hours while the connection was being made.

A BREWER MAN AND STEAMBOATS. Mr. S. D. Leach has returned from a trip to Moosehead Lake, where he has been to examine the steamer Fairy of the Lake, which has not been in the water for some time and was considered as beyond repair. Mr. Leach is confident, however, that she can be put in good condition and may yet do valuable service on the lake. As a commencement he has sent a crew of men from this city to work on her and first of the week will go up there himself to superintend the work. As soon as he has finished this work, if he is not called to go to Lake Cheauncook to put twenty feet on the bow of the steamer John Ross, which, it has been concluded, is not sharp enough for all their purposes, he will commence work on a new steamer for Capt. Samuel Cole of Greenville, which is to be a very handsome craft, sixty feet in length, the model having been made by Capt. Hopkins, master builder in the yard of E. & I. K. Stetson, in this city, where they are now building a large barkentine.

DESPONDENCY

Causes Horace Leiton, of This City, to Attempt His Own Life.

Quite a stir was created among our citizens, yesterday morning, when it became generally known that about eleven o'clock on the evening before, Horace Leiton, a young man living on Belton street with his wife and two children, had attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a large pocket-knife and had come very near accomplishing his object.

Leiton has been for some time in the employ of the Maine Central railroad, as a fireman, and was last winter promoted to the position of engineer of a train running to Pittsfield Lake in the ice business, on which he worked so constantly, sometimes being obliged to work night and day, that in a short time it began to have an effect on his health and he consulted a physician, complaining of pains in his stomach and a general depressed condition, bodily and mentally. Finding, after a time that he did not improve, his physician told him to take a vacation or he would not be able to stand the strain and would die. Thinking a change would do him good, he took his family with him to Augusta, and there, with new scenes and the change, he apparently improved and a short time ago they returned home. After arriving here, he suddenly commenced to grow worse and continually was saying and doing things which plainly showed that he was not himself and for about a week he has had a habit of getting up after retiring and walking the floor, seemingly filled with the idea that he and his family were coming to want. On the evening when he made the attempt to kill himself, he got up and walked the floor for a while and then coming to the side of the bed and with some remark to his wife about killing himself, stabbed himself in the neck three times, and then fell over backward on the bed, off of which Mrs. Leiton got at once and called for help. She sent for the family physician, his house being near at hand and he was fortunately at home, so that he went there at once. There was no man in the house to assist the doctor, and one who was called in was of so little help by reason of fright that he was sent for more help which he failed to find. In the meantime the doctor, after a severe tussle with the man, who, in his insanity and in spite of his loss of blood, which was very great, had spasms of strength and required all the doctor's strength to hold. Another physician was called, and the cuts were sewed up as soon as possible, the patient by this time being so weak from loss of blood that he could no longer resist. Examination revealed that he had made two cuts on the right side of the neck, one not as deep as the other, which was about four inches long and in a downward direction, missing by a miracle the principal blood vessels and windpipe, and one cut on the left side which was deep but not as long. Yesterday the would be suicide was as comfortable as possible and if serious inflammation does not set in, will recover. He is still insane at times and it is necessary to keep a watcher with him constantly, as it is feared that he may repeat the attempt, which is a great surprise to those who knew him, as he was a young man of steady habits and much liked.

THE ELECTION BILL.

Senator Hoar's Speech Against the Quay Resolution.

A Sound Argument for the Protection of the Right of Suffrage.

In the Senate debate Wednesday Senator Hoar in opposing the Quay resolution spoke in part as follows:

SENATOR HOAR'S REMARKS.

Every Senator, when he enters upon his office, takes an oath to support the Constitution of the United States, and to defend it against all enemies, foreign and domestic. The obligation of that oath attends him through his whole service. It is his first, last, constant and fundamental duty. It is the supreme law of his great office. It is the chief purpose for which the legislative power is placed in his hands. I seek to impose no law upon the conscience and understanding of other men, but I must keep that oath myself, as I understand it. The duty to use that power for that end is as binding on me on all fit occasions as is the duty of the President to use the executive power, or the soldier to use his sword. The failure so to use it on fit occasion, from timidity, from selfish ambition, for personal advantage or for personal ease, is as ignoble for me as a like failure of the soldier in the hour of battle. This bill undertakes to defend the Constitution of the United States against an attempt to overthrow it by depriving the majority of the people of their right honestly and freely to elect Representatives in the other house of Congress, and by substituting for such election processes of fraud, intimidation and bribery. It relates to a matter of purely national concern. The National House of Representatives is the final judgment of the election of its members. The main object of this bill is to provide for obtaining the evidence upon which the House can safely proceed in rendering that judgment. The function of the Representative is wholly national. Upon that, as upon scarcely any other, depends the continuance of the national life itself. In case of failure by the people, the House of Representatives elects the President. It alone can set in motion the great mechanism of impeachment, by which, in the last resort, every national officer is kept to his duties. The power of taxation and the power of expenditure can be initiated only with its consent. It only can open the Treasury of the nation. It only can open the purses of the people. It is the immediate depository of the people's will. It is the only branch of the Government which, in the original scheme of the Constitution, was made immediately dependent on the people alone.

When the foundation of this chamber was laid in 1851, Daniel Webster declared as the fundamental principles of which our system rests, first, "the principle of popular representation;" and next, "that the will of the majority, fairly expressed through the means of representation, shall have the force of law; for it is obvious that there can be no other foundation for law to rest on." History, Mr. President, has already vindicated the wisdom of our fathers in their conception of the House of Representatives. In it the American people may see itself as in a mirror. It has partaken, doubtless, in fullest measure of the faults and imperfections of the communities from which it springs. A Republican government is a government where human nature shows itself as it is. But still its history has been, in large degree, the epitome of the history of the country. As we think of that great assembly, its hurl stormy century just gone by, the generations are brought together, and the historic figures seem to stand side by side, still deliberating, still speaking to each other and to us. Here the commemorate wisdom of Madison ever guides the people in the paths of that constitution which it did so much to create. The trumpet voice of Clay seems again to stir in the veins of his countrymen the spirit of their rising nationality. Here the figure of Adams, his fourscore years resting as a crown of glory upon his head, again breasts the tempestuous sea of slavery and declares "thus far shalt thou come and no farther; and here shall thy proud waves be stayed." Here Stevens, the great commoner, breaks through the trammels of a strict and narrow construction and accomplishes constitutional ends with little regard for constitutional restraints.

It seems to me, Mr. President, that it is the most important single object of legislation that this spring of liberty should be kept pure. The House sends to the Senate for its concurrence a measure which it deems essential to its own preservation. That House has ever been jealous of its authority and prerogative. We may well believe that when it asks the aid of any other power than its own to secure its constitutional integrity a serious crisis has arisen. I should be the last man to undervalue the great conservative functions of the Senate. This body represents as no other, the purpose of the States and the sober second thought of the country itself. But when after twenty years' constant discussion and constant complaint the House of Representatives spoke upon this subject, it pronounced the people's mandate that we should secure the honest expression of the people's will. The provisions of this bill are the result of a most satisfactory experience in this country and in England. There is nothing in it that is new. It is simply blending the provisions of a law which has been in operation in England for twenty-two years with a general public satisfaction with the provisions of a law which has been in operation in this country for nineteen years with general public satisfaction. The only change which has been made in either is to limit, restrict and guard them against the possibility of partisan abuse.

It is said that this measure imputes dishonor to one part of the country. I shall show presently that it takes for granted no condition of fact there which its own authorities and leaders have not again and again declared to exist. But it strikes at evil in all parts of the country alike. It only applies to the whole country with especial precaution and safeguard what the North has applied to itself for nearly twenty years. Unhappily, popular elections are attended with these abuses. The passion for political power, even in free countries, is with many men the strongest passion of the soul, too often overcoming the love of country itself. The national power has again and again, even at the present session, been invoked by the Representatives of the South to protect their people against money-making combinations, burdening and engrossing the necessaries of life, which the States find themselves unable to control. How are they dishonored when the power of this country comes to their aid against a still more powerful combination, whose object is to engross the political power of the country in a vast private trust, and so to plunder the American people of that primal necessary of life of all, the right to their equal share in their own Government.

In proposing this measure we are doing exactly what the framers of the Constitution expected of us. The Senator said that he should not to-day enter into any elaborate vindication of the constitutionality of this bill. He quoted liberally from the Constitution itself, from the remarks of Mr. Madison and Governeur Morris in the Constitutional Convention, and from two decisions of the United States Supreme Court, wherein that tribunal limited the power of Congress to interfere by legislation for the protection of civil rights to the case of an express denial of those rights by administrative legislation of the States, thus sweeping away at one blow the carefully prepared framework of Republican legislation. That decision, he contended, has been hailed by Southern Democratic orators on this floor and elsewhere, as giving a new birth to the doctrine of the rights of the States. What Republican, when Democratic States Want Republican votes to deny the constitutional power of Congress, or to threaten revolution in the face of this unanimous judgment of our highest constitutional tribunal? But it is said that this power is given to Congress only that it may be used when the States neglect to provide for an election and in order to prevent a vacancy. This the Senator answered by repeating once more the language of the Supreme Court in Ex parte Yarborough. Undoubtedly, he continued, the States should not be permitted so to legislate or so to refrain from legislation that their seats in the House of Representatives shall be vacant. That was one great reason for this constitutional provision. But is that seat any less vacant, in any genuine and constitutional sense, when the man entitled to it is kept out of it because a usurper has got into it? If the man whom Massachusetts has commissioned to express her will is defrauded of his authority, is she any the less deprived of representation that somebody pretends to speak for against her will, contrary to her desire, and imposes upon her the thing she would not have? In that case, it seems to me, the law is doubly overthrown and justice is twice slain.

Per Order of Class Committee

[illegible] has looked the field over and has decided not to run for Congress in Pennsylvania this fall. He has evidently learned that 1890 is a poor year for free traders.

Hon. Fred Douglass asks Congress to pass the Election bill, for the reason that his people now cast a ballot at the peril of their lives. Douglass comes as near speaking the sentiments of the colored people in the South as any man in the country. He certainly is a more credible witness than the Democratic papers in the South which contend that the negroes are opposed to the "Force bill."

Senator Carlisle made a sad blunder when he seized upon the duty on [illegible] for the purpose of ridiculing the tariff. In [illegible] American workmen were paying [illegible] per dozen for imported English [illegible]. To-day under the workings of the robber tariff the mechanic can buy an American [illegible] of the same quality for about [illegible] per dozen. Mr. Carlisle should exercise more care because when he runs up against stubborn facts like these he must expect to get hurt.

The Commercial believes that the public treasury is "looted" when money is taken from it without benefit to the people [illegible]

But the figures show that thus far this year $3,107.90 has been paid onto the county treasury as the result of liquor [illegible] and costs. These figures make the [illegible] decidedly weary [illegible] the alleged raid on the treasury footing up less than $200 [illegible]

The New York World should repudiate the recent [illegible] it received from the indignant farmer who detected the [illegible] in its articles on the tariff as it relates to agricultural implements. Hardly a day that the World does not publish from one to four editorials just as far removed from the truth as the particular article which was riddled by the New York farmer. The World has yet to learn that a campaign of misrepresentation will not pay in the end. The people are too intelligent to be deceived by its campaign of [illegible]

The following brief table containing the [illegible] bill and the McKinley bill will be of interest to the farmer:

[illegible]	REPUBLICAN BILL
[illegible]	[illegible]

The Philadelphia Observer of this week publishes the letter written by Congressman Dolliver with the following introductory note:

FOXCROFT, Aug 13, 1890

Messrs. Editors:

I clip from The Whig and Courier the following letter to Hon. Lewis Barker from Congressman J. P. Dolliver in regard to our able representative at Washington, Mr. Boutelle. Although a private and personal letter it contains so much of general interest, it was given to the public through The Whig, and I am sure that your readers, who take an honest pride in the reputation of Maine, and the wise leadership of her statesmen, will peruse it with pleasure. Statesman [illegible] is not behind in his admiration of the grand record being made by the loyal Boutelle.

W. E. PARSONS.

The Portland Press says: The Democratic campaign for [illegible] seems to be up hill work. Though the gentlemen who are running it are taking great pains to keep their real purpose out of sight and are proclaiming that a vote for Thompson is merely a vote for [illegible] and not an endorsement of [illegible] [illegible]

The second factory in the production of machine-made lace in the United States is to be built immediately in [illegible] and will give employment to [illegible] persons. The [illegible] [illegible]

Cost of Senators. "Courtesy."

The courtesy of the Senate is an expensive luxury. The Senators claim to enjoy the luxury, but the people know they have to pay the bills. Last week's imports at New York were $12,100,[illegible] against [illegible] last year, and in five years the [illegible] has been [illegible] or [illegible] per cent. More than [illegible] a week, is the mere increase of imports, goes abroad to pay for goods which many thousand American artisans and operatives are anxious to produce. They are idle because the Senate delays and dawdles. At $10 a week [illegible] of them would be kept busy doing the work which Senate tardiness compels us to pay foreigners for doing. In dry goods alone, and at the port of New York alone, the increase in importations and goods thrown on the market during five weeks has been in value $4,711,677, which would have supplied work for 84,000 American workers, 30,000 in woolen mills, 17,000 on cotton, [illegible] on silk, [illegible] in linen and flax, and [illegible] in miscellaneous works. Consumers in these industries who are seeking work in vain will look to their Senators for the reason.

Leading Colored Men Speak Their Minds on the Election Bill.

T. B. Stamps, editor of the Standard Pelican, an influential negro journal published in New Orleans, in response to questions asked him about the Lodge bill in the Election bill said:

"I believe the Lodge bill was framed and passed to secure a fair, honest election and correct return of the vote cast for Congressmen. If an election that holds counts the [illegible] in power of the Republican party, the result would seem to be honest and legitimate. The country needs no more evidence to prove that the present frauds govern elections at this hour. No man can truthfully assert that under the Lodge bill every ballot cast will not be honestly counted and returned, for representatives of both the State and Nation are at the box. It is the honest count and return that is not wanted.

"Secondly, the Republican party has ever been the friend of the colored man. Every civil and political right he possesses came from that party, and the granting of it was opposed by the Democratic party. The Republican party is a party of universal manhood and progress. The Democratic party is one of caste and of unfriendliness to our race. We are firmly convinced that the best interests of the colored men would not be subserved by [illegible] his civil rights, which ought to [illegible] not [illegible] at all or else vote the Democratic ticket."

"The chances under the bill is for Congressmen only, and the negro who casts a vote will [illegible] the [illegible] of knowing that it is counted. It is quite possible there may be [illegible] in sections of certain Southern States, but these [illegible] would not be general. The peculiar methods of the Southern Democracy will not be called into requisition. [illegible] in an election that does not involve the election of local officers.

"The capitalist feels more secure under investments while the power of the Federal Government is made stable. It is only the thief that fears the [illegible] of a policeman, and it is only the dishonest voter that fears representatives of the Federal Government. [illegible] be maintained where the vote of the people is suppressed, and capital does not come to those sections of the South noted for the prevalence of political fraud and injustice."

C. S. Brown of the Baptist [illegible], a religious paper published by colored Baptists in North Carolina, in response to a request as to what, in his opinion, would be the effect likely to follow the passage of the Federal Election bill, said:

I believe the bill to be a patriotic measure, and more than a mere party issue, and to have been introduced solely for the purpose of giving legal emphasis to the protection of the ballot box.

"The Republican party has ever been friendly to the interests of the colored people in the past. I see no reason why it cannot be trusted in the future. There would be no change in our votes, but the bill, if it should become a law, would make us feel that our votes are worth something. It might, indeed, prove to the law breakers to resort to violence for awhile, but [illegible] defense of a just law should not be regarded as a reason for [illegible] against its adoption.

"Such an event would continue without the least interruption. I anticipate no harm on this line in case the bill becomes a law.

"The time has fully come when the General Government should emphatically insist by appropriate legislation that in Federal elections at least there shall be a free vote and a fair count."

BAR HARBOR.

Pleasant Weather Adds to People's Enjoyment.

Large Crowds of Strangers Arriving Every Day.

Special Correspondence of Whig and Courier.]

Bar Harbor, Aug. 22. The weather at Bar Harbor has been as nearly perfect as one could wish. Showers through the night lay the dust and make the pleasant days so much enjoyed by tourists, more enjoyable. There are not as many permanent guests as there were last week, but every steamer and train brings crowds of sight-seeing strangers, for whom the clear days seem to be specially given. Driving and sailing parties are the present occupations of Bar Harbor, and many small parties of both kinds have been given this week.

Mrs. Thomas Scott of Chaury Cottage gave a sailing party to fifteen guests last Thursday. The yacht Zelm owned by Mrs. Scott was fitted with all the requisites of a dainty lunch, served by that prince of caterers, Sproul. Mr. Edward Scott, with a party of gentlemen for a cruise along the eastern coast. The two boats left the harbor at the same time and kept together until the white sails were swallowed in the distance.

Mr. J. W. Hancock, a guest at the Rodick, also gave a sailing party on Thursday, and Sproul catered for that. The party was an all but congenial one and enjoyed most thoroughly the comfort of the [illegible]

Mr. Decker Bush of Boston, gave a pretty lunch on Tuesday in one of the private rooms at Sproul's. Covers were laid for eight people. These delightful little parties seem to be a favorite way of entertaining ones pleasantest friends, for only congenial people are invited to these parties and at such a time each guest is at his best.

Mr. Charles Fleury of the Malvern gave

at Sproul's last Wednesday. One of the private rooms was handsomely decorated with green and presented a cool, restful appearance. A handsome centre piece of roses and other beautiful flowers adorned the table which was arranged for eight guests, and hand bouquets were placed at each lady's seat. The centre piece was the handiwork of Moses the florist, and the bouquets equally beautiful, were arranged by Morton, whose taste in such matters is unapproachable.

The yacht "Juno" owned by Mr. Emery Houghton, of Bath, reached Bar Harbor last Wednesday. Mr. Gayland [illegible], of Bath, is among the party.

The ladies of the Congregational Society are holding a sale, with supper and concert, in the music-room of the Grand Central. The sale begins at five o'clock and there are many to be disposed of. The supper is from 6 to 8 o'clock and the concert commences at 8 precisely. Mr. Van Raalt, the violinist, who is adding to his reputation during his stay here; Mrs. Whelen, who has been heard at several of the best entertainments given this season, where her readings are great features of the evening's enjoyment, Mrs. [illegible], Miss Margaret Filler and Mr. H. S. Temple have offered their services for this entertainment.

Mr Frank Stockton is among the new arrivals at the Grand Central.

A party consisting of Secretary Blaine, Mrs. Eugene Hale and her guests, Mrs. Stebbins and Miss Houghton, of Washington, came from Ellsworth last Thursday. They were met by General Carson and a buckboard was enjoyed by the party.

The Sagamore, owned by Sister, of [illegible], arrived at Bar Harbor last evening. This is a steam yacht and is larger than any yacht seen in the harbor this season. She is built on the same plan as the steamer Sappho and is handsomely finished and decorated. Her appearance adds to the beauty of the harbor scenery.

On Tuesday evening the guests at The Bluffs were favored with another of those enjoyable musicales for which that house is noted. Miss Kate Vannah, too well known in literary and musical circles to need special introductory notice, has been a guest at The Bluffs this week and her contributions to the musical programme, on Tuesday evening, were of considerable value. The waltz "By the Sea," composed by Miss Vannah, published in Boston and widely circulated throughout the country, was played on that evening by the composer and rendered as only one in whose brain the harmonies were born could render it. It is said that the Philharmonic Orchestra, of Portland, will include this waltz in the first concert's programme. Other parts in the evening's entertainment were taken by Miss Pinkcock, whose playing is always a source of exquisite pleasure, Miss Robinson, a well known soprano of Augusta, and Miss Ball, who has delighted Boscawen guests with her dialect readings, Miss [illegible], of Bangor, who possesses the uncommon accomplishment of whistling, and whistling well, contributed toward making the concert a success.

Mrs. J. B. Morris gave a brilliant reception at Hull's Cove yesterday. Between one and two hundred invitations were issued, all of which were accepted. Sproul furnished everything necessary for a large spread and the decorating was done by Moses. This was the largest social event since the departure of the fleet.

FROM AUGUSTA.

Governor and Council in Session.

Augusta, Aug. 22. The Governor and Council met to-day and chiefly routine business was done. O. D. Clason, of Gardiner, appeared on behalf of the sole purchaser of both college taxes of 1888, in accordance with the act of legislature of 1889.

At the afternoon session of the Governor and Council, John Moran was pardoned from Portland jail, where he is serving a sentence for drunkenness and assault. Moran belonged to the crew of the war ship Baltimore and was arrested ashore. The officers of the Baltimore, petitioned for his pardon.

An order was passed for the appointment of W. H. McKusson, game warden, [illegible] hearing [illegible] on petition of complainants.

PENSIONS GRANTED.

Additional to Residents of Maine.

Washington, Aug. 22. The following pensions have been granted to residents of Maine:

Original, Lyman Bradford, Byron; Benj. A. Briggs, Bath; A. J. Smith, Hiram Centre; W. W. Dunn, Washington, Franklin Smith, Anson; Richard, [illegible] of I. C. March, Unity; Hamlin, widow of Wm. E. Clough, Bucksport; Deborah, widow of Ira Cutter, Pa. thenia.

FROM BATH.

Sudden Death of a Sapper.

Bath, Aug. 22. Wm. Taylor, second mate of the barkentine Chieftain, died suddenly this morning of heart disease. He belonged in Fall River. His age was 38.

FROM CALAIS.

Railroad Bridge Burned.

Calais, Aug. 22. The St. Croix and Penobscot railroad covered bridge, spanning the St. Croix river, at Baring, Maine, was burned yesterday. It probably caught from a spark from the mill furnace. Loss, $2,000; insured.

CAMP [illegible].

Pleasant Entertainment at the Encampment.—Good Weather.

[From Our Special Correspondent.]

Camp Benner, Aug. 22.

Governor's Day ended with a pleasant dance at the pavilion. The Governor and wife participated early in the evening, leaving at 9.30. As many as eight couple Sunday dance attended. And then the fun! A genuine Camp Benner "blow out" drum pony then lasted until morning. We were reminded when we saw the glorious sunrise that we were told years ago the during the building of Solomon's Temple, for forty years, "it rained not by the day time, that the workmen might not be hindered in their work." We think we are favored in like manner, as however the torrents pour through the night, we have lovely days.

There were the usual army calls during the early hours of the day, then a game of base ball, wherein the Corinna nine were victorious; the Newports being defeated.

The result of the meeting of the officers of the association is not yet announced.

An auction sale of lots after dinner, than the usual band concert and some ball practice.

At 2.30 an entertainment at the pavilion was given by the W. R. C. The hall was crowded and the promenaders around the veranda made hearing rather difficult. We would suggest that the promenade be covered half a foot deep with saw-dust, and guards at the corners to enforce quiet at such times.

The following is the programme which was arranged from the material on hand, and in a short space of time:

The meeting was called to order by the President of the association, Mr. Dodge, who, with a few explanatory remarks, presented the chairman of the committee, Mrs. Jones, of Corps 4. Rev. Mr. Webster, of Newport, offered prayer. The audience sang "America," led by Mrs. Harr, of Dexter.

Mrs. Jones then introduced Mrs. Leavitt, of Skowhegan, Department President of Maine who gave an interesting talk of 10 minutes, on the work and growth of the W. R. C., showing that from the small number of 42, the corps had grown in 7 years to 100,000. She advanced some excellent ideas on the subjects of loyal ladies and of female suffrage, and told a pretty little incident relating to the loyalty of a little girl of Maryland during the war of the rebellion.

Next came a cornet solo by a little Miss Harr, of Cambridge, aged 9 years, who was heartily encored and responded very gracefully.

A recitation by Miss Coolie, of St. Albans; select reading, by Mrs. Macomber, and a selection from Hiawatha, by Miss Leavitt were finely rendered. The quartette "Johnny Schmoker" was applauded to the echo. The reading by Mrs. Jones, another solo by little Miss Derek, remarks by Mrs. Trundy, of Garland, Junior Vice President of Maine, select reading by Mrs. Perry, who has a fine voice, and was heard by nearly all of the audience, and a recitation by Mrs. Jones followed. Mrs. Leavitt then returned thanks to the audience and the W. R. C. for their assistance in the programme.

After the entertainment an informal meeting of the W. R. C. was held at the pavilion to make arrangements for the better use of the day here next year.

It was decided to appoint one lady from each Corps to act with the incoming President or her substitute, to form committees in each Corps and contribute toward the general entertainment on Ladies' day, 1891. Mrs. Leavitt was appointed as chairman of the entire committee to act with the incoming officers of the Association in arranging a program submitted to her by the various committees. The following is a list of the ladies appointed for this work:

Carmel, Mrs. Walding; Corinna, Mrs. Jones; Dexter, Mrs. Shepard; Dixmont, Mrs. Hamilton; Etna, Miss Wiggins; Garland, Mrs. Trundy; Levant, Mrs. Kelley; Pittsfield, Georgia Phillips; Skowhegan, Mrs. Leavitt; St. Albans, Ella Ray, and two ladies from Hampden.

The State Corps were invited to assist and an invitation was extended to all this branch of the ladies working for the same object, to assist in the program.

The following corps were represented: Bangor, one member present; Carmel, President Mrs. Dodge and nine members; Corinna, Mrs. Joselyn, President, and twenty-one members; Dexter, Mrs. Russell President, and twenty-five members; Dixmont, Mrs. Harris, President, and seven members; Etna, four members present; Garland, Mrs. Ridgeout, President and seven members; Levant, Mrs. Hunt, President, and eight members; Pittsfield, Mrs. Libbey, President, and nineteen members; Skowhegan, (two members) St. Albans, Mrs. Estes, President, and ten members. There are twelve corps, and one hundred and twenty members.

We were sorry not to hear a few words from our Department Senior Vice President, Mrs. Dames of Pittsfield, who was present. Altogether, it was a very satisfactory day for the ladies of the W. R. C., and we feel gratified to report so united a sentiment in favor of this branch of the association. Dress parade occurred at 4.30.

The steamer Electa, of the Castine and Belfast line, is in port for repairs.

Steamboat Inspectors Flowers and Staples go to Columbia Falls to-day to inspect a new steamer in that vicinity.

Quite a number from this city and vicinity have gone this week to the campmeeting at Alton Bay, New Hampshire, which is now in progress.

The British steamer Mersey left this port yesterday bound for Aspinwall with a cargo of spoolwood. She has been in this port about a week receiving her cargo.

We have received from J. D. Glynn the last G. A. R. encampment number of the Boston Traveller, which is a valuable number for preservation, containing elegant illustrations.

The Electa, which runs between Belfast, Castine and Long Island, arrived in this port yesterday. She will remain here for a short time in order that she may receive some slight repairs.

J. F. Parkhurst & Son are building an addition to their large factory on Main street and the frame is now up. It will be sixty feet long and three stories high, and will give the firm the additional room that their business needs.

A party of tourists who have been passing a few days at Bar Harbor arrived in the city yesterday and left for St. Andrews where Sunday will be passed at the Algonquin, which is a very popular resort, attracting people from all parts of the country.

Mackerel fishing is said to be growing better in Penobscot bay and there is reason to believe that there will be an abundance of the toothsome tinkers before August is out. This outlook ought certainly to give a decided boom to summer life in that beautiful section.

The Penobscot County Pomona Grange holds its regular monthly meeting with Exeter Grange to-day. An unusually large attendance is expected as the Exeter Grange is large and flourishing and have made every possible arrangement to has an interesting meeting.

Mr. E. C. Frost, who has been visiting friends in the Provinces, will be in the city over Sunday on his return to Portland, Ore. Mr. Frost, who was formerly general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, will be present and address their meeting Sunday afternoon.

The Bangor Fire Department has received from Charles Woodman, Esq., through Mr. H. L. Crowell, the sum of $25 in appreciation of the valuable services rendered in saving his buildings from fire on the evening of August 5th, last. A card of thanks to the department also appears in another column.

The O'Leary rafts have made good progress along the coast of Maine on their way to New York. Mr. Murray, the agent for the rafts, is in Portland awaiting the arrival of two more big rafts. They were expected there yesterday, where they will be repaired and lightened for the last stage of the long voyage.

A large party of people belonging in Salem, Mass., was in the city yesterday on the way home from Kineo where an extended visit had been made. The members spoke very enthusiastically concerning their sojourn at that very popular resort, and will go there again at the next opportunity. They left for Salem on the Flying Yankee.

The fall term of the Hampden Academy, under the instruction of Mr. Walter Rent as principal, opens on Tuesday next with a large list of students and with the brightest promise for a successful term. During the vacation painting and papering have put the rooms in the best condition and the popular old Academy will start out with a renewed lease of life and with excellent prospects for future usefulness.

The travel both east and west through this city continues large, and every train has many passengers. The capacity of the Pullman cars as well as the passenger coaches is tested about every trip. People are going and coming from the summer resorts in large numbers. The places at the hotels at the resorts which are made vacant are immediately filled by new arrivals, making a healthy circulation of tourists.

The summer residents at Fort Point made the acquaintance last Tuesday night of a real, business like cyclone. They were awakened by the heavy blow, and many of them were all prepared to escape as best they could if their dwellings should go over. The wind howled terribly for a time but fortunately did not prove sufficiently active to take the houses along with it. The residents were given quite a [illegible].

The three-masted schooner Carrie A. Bucknam, formerly of this city, which was recently hauled out upon the marine railway at Belfast has quite a history. Several years ago she was abandoned at sea during a terrible storm. The vessel floated about on the ocean for four months and was finally picked up and towed into Key West minus masts, rigging, etc. When the salvage was paid she was sold to Capt. Mark Gray, of Bucksport, who rebuilt her.

The people of Patten are to have the pleasure of listening to some good music from a new organization which has just been formed in that town. It is a brass quartette and rehearsals have begun. The instruments were obtained recently, and are similar to those secured a short time ago by Mr. A. D. Harlow, of this city, for the Amherst Band. They are silver plated and of the first quality. They were sent to Mr. E. C. Adams, of this city, to be tested and proved very satisfactory. The quartette will make its first public appearance this evening at an entertainment to be given under the auspices of the G. A. R. post at that place.

Bicycle Races. The Bangor wheelmen are interested in the annual fall meet of the Maine Division, League of American Wheelmen, which takes place at Presumpscot Trotting Park, Portland, Labor Day, Monday, September 1st, and some of them intend to be present. The races, which are under the management of the Portland Wheel Club, it is hoped, will be [illegible] [illegible]

The up-river summer hotels are all doing an excellent business, the Kineo House, Moosehead Inn, which had 112 guests Thursday night; the Deer Isle House, Roach River House, Lake House, McFarland's and the Silver Lake Hotel being good examples. [illegible]

Many of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Bailey gathered at their residence last evening to witness the unfolding of a night blooming cereus. The plant was a beautiful one, and the unfolding process was interesting to all. The evening was very pleasantly passed by all who were present. The Whig is indebted to Mr. and Mrs. Bailey for a handsome flower.

Excursion on the Steamer Katahdin. The excursion on the steamer Katahdin to Castine, postponed from last Monday, will occur next Monday and a very pleasant time is expected. It will be given under the auspices of the Northport Campground Association. The steamer leaves the Boston and Bangor Steamship Company's wharf at 7 A. M., touching at Hampden, Winterport, Bucksport, Belfast and Northport and remains at Castine a sufficient length of time to get dinner and visit Fort George and other places of interest, returning to Bangor in time for the evening train up river. The Bangor Band, A. D. Harlow, director, will accompany the excursion, and in addition to the usual music at landings will give two first-class band concerts in the saloon, one in the forenoon and one in the afternoon.

The Public Schools. The fall term of the public schools will commence on Monday, September 22d, and will continue thirteen weeks, closing on December 19th for a vacation of two weeks. The time of beginning is a week later than usual, and the change is made for several reasons. One is that a majority of the scholars prefer to have a week longer vacation in the summer, thus taking off a week from the winter vacation which has generally been three weeks duration. The scholars have been enjoying the summer rest and will doubtless be pleased to have it continue a little longer than has been customary, even if the Christmas vacation is made a little shorter. The new school books of the free system will be all ready for distribution on the first day of the fall term. The greater part of them has been received here and the work of assortment and labeling is still going on.

Highly Complimentary. Many friends in this city will be pleased to read the following complimentary notice from a late San Francisco paper, of one well known here. Dr. Sanderson is a nephew of J. S. Rowe, Esq., and is pleasantly remembered by many whom he has met on his visits here: "Dr. Henry Ellis Sanderson, one of the most distinguished of the Americans who attended the recent World's Congress of Physicians at Berlin, is a native of this city, being the son of the well known merchant, George H. Sanderson. After passing through the Lincoln School and the Boy's High School he went to the University at Berkeley, where he graduated in 1879 with the degree of Ph. D. He then spent three years at the Cooper Medical College, and afterward went through the Polytechnic College of New York, following this up with two years at the Mount Sinai Hospital. Since then he has been studying at Dresden, Heidelberg, Berlin and Vienna."

A Reminiscence. In a communication to the Bangor Register of July 12, 1830, giving an account of a Fourth of July celebration at Foxcroft, the following appears: "An oration was delivered by John Appleton, Esq., of Sebec, characterized by a sound and discriminating exposition of the origin, character and excellency of our government and of the means which could not fail to give it perpetuity. It was wholly free from the bitterness of party, which too often mingles with the hallowed remembrances of our National Sabbath and degrades the descendants of those whose memory and achievements the day is set apart to commemorate." The orator of the day, to whom such a graceful allusion was made, was no other than our esteemed and venerable fellow citizen, Ex-Chief Justice Appleton, and the adjectives, "sound and discriminating" are a complete index to his whole professional and judicial career and those qualities won for him the eminence he has attained as a leading jurist.

A Pleasant Outing. The birthday excursion and picnic given yesterday by Miss Susie May Barbour, the little nine years old daughter of Capt. S. H. Barbour, to teachers, members and friends of her Sunday School class of the Columbia street Sunday School, on steamer Castine to Fort Point, proved a most enjoyable and successful trip and was participated in by nearly seventy persons, about fifty children and youths being in the party. At Fort Point abundant and delicious refreshments were served in the open air, then the children were taken to the sandy beach, where they spent a happy hour gathering shells and stones, and all too soon it was time to return home. The children voted sincere thanks to their little hostess and her intelligent father, for the great pleasure they had enjoyed. On the way home a talk was had about the Boys' Home, in charge of Rev. Mr. Hinckley, at Good Will Farm, and the children were so interested that they gave their spending money to be sent to Mr. Hinckley, saying that as they had enjoyed so much they wished to help make other children happy too, thus showing a true Christian spirit and endorsing their Sunday School and home training. The party reached home at 6.30, all too soon to suit the little ones, who enjoyed every moment of the day's outing.

Good Will Farm Barn Raising. Some of the Bangor people who are interested in the welfare of the Good Will Farm at Fairfield, in charge of Rev. G. W. Hinckley, of this city, intend to be present at the old fashioned barn raising at that place next Thursday. A very large number will be present, as everybody who desires to attend is invited. The building committee hopes to make it one grand picnic and to this end has secured half fares from all stations on the Maine Central. All trains that day will stop at the Farm within fifty rods of the barn and it will be a delightful excursion. A monster tent will be pitched on the grounds, where dinner will be served after the barn is raised. The committee will furnish beans baked in the ground and an abundance of coffee. The ladies will bring pastry and the dinner will be served after the style of a basket picnic dinner. Beans and coffee will be free to all. The raising will commence promptly on the arrival of the train from Waterville at about 10.30. There must be at least fifty able bodied men to lend a hand and it is hoped that there will be one thousand to look on and see that the frame is properly put together. In the afternoon an opportunity will be given to inspect the Farm and study the workings of the Home. The first train will leave the farm at 3.30 [illegible]

Evidently Not To Blame. Conductor Frazier, of the Pullman service, has returned to duty after a short absence due to an occurrence at St. John, where he was struck with a cane by a policeman and afterwards arrested when he expostulated, without having given any cause for such action upon the part of the officer. The occurrence was observed by Gen. Warner, ex-Vice Consul, who was on the train which was just about to start when the disturbance happened. He at once left the car and voluntarily went to the authorities to give his evidence in the matter. The evidence of the witnesses was of such a nature that the government did not care to press the matter and the conductor was liberated in a few hours after the occurrence at the depot.

Voting For The Hose Bell. The bell for which the voting is now in progress was on exhibition yesterday forenoon and afternoon at the post office approach, and in the evening was placed in the window of Tea White's store on Kenduskeag bridge where it will remain on exhibition for some time. The bell is a large and handsome one, and will be much prized by the company which obtains it as the result of the popular vote. It weighs 200 pounds, cost $200, and was obtained through the agency of Gen. Joseph S. Smith. There is now spirited voting among the friends of the different hose companies, and the contest is close enough to make it interesting. It will probably be seen in the firemen's tournament which will be a feature of the Eastern Maine State Fair, and as it is built for rapid going may take part in the races. The company which is the fortunate one to get the most votes will have an excellent machine.

WAYLAID AT NIGHT.

Mount Hope Avenue the Scene of an Encounter with a Would-be Highwayman.

About 10.30 o'clock last night Mr. Harry Tuisell drove hastily down town and informed Officer Stickford that an attempt had been made to waylay his team a few minutes before on Mount Hope avenue. From his story it was gathered that he was driving with a companion on Mount Hope avenue and that when at a point beyond Howard street he stopped to put on the curtains of the carriage. As he was about getting into the vehicle a big man suddenly appeared from the bushes and seized the horse by the head. As he did so Tuisell struck the horse sharply with the whip, causing the animal, which was a spirited one, to jump quickly, throwing the would-be highwayman to the ground. The horse was put into a gallop and the man was left behind. Officer Stickford drove to the scene with Tuisell and searched for the party wanted, but without success. The law breaker as seen in the dark, is described as tall, wearing a soft hat and a short coat buttoned up to the chin. It is hoped he may be captured.

The Cause of His Death.

Augusta, Aug. 20.

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier:

Your Dixmont correspondent in announcing the death of Mr. Amos Whitney, of East Dixmont, which occurred in the hospital in this city the 6th instant unintentionally, no doubt, reflects upon the institution and does great injustice to the management when he says: "The cause of his death resulted from a fracture of his hip, which it is reported was done by another patient, although the full facts of the case may never be known."

As the friend of Mr. Whitney, I state in the most positive manner that I have not a shadow of doubt that all the facts are known and that Mr. Whitney was pushed, not in a malicious spirit, by a sick patient, as weak as he was himself, and that his hip was fractured by the fall he got. It was purely accidental.

For the satisfaction of Mr. Whitney's friends I will say that he did not appear to suffer at all on account of the fracture, strange as it may seem. I was a frequent visitor to him while he was sick and I speak from a personal knowledge. He received the best and tenderest care during his detention there.

Dr. Sanborn and all his assistants were untiring in their efforts to alleviate his sufferings before and after the accident.

The immediate cause of his death was not the fracture to the hip; it resulted from other causes hastened by the fracture.

Hotelliers Service.

The concert by the Bangor Band last evening proved a source of attraction and enjoyment to the same very large crowd which attends these musical events. The programme as published in yesterday's Whig was carried out with the best possible effect. The selections were well chosen and of pleasing variety and they were rendered with that skill which is characteristic of the work of the band. The cornet solo by Mr. E. C. Adams, and the baritone solo by Mr. J. F. McNalty were features of the concert and liberal applause was given them. The weather was very favorable for the concert, and the listeners enjoyed the music in comfort.

AMUSEMENTS.

Gorman's Minstrels Next Monday Night.

Gorman's Minstrels will furnish lots of fun at the Opera House next Monday night. They are well known to our theatre goers as an excellent aggregation of talent, and will present an entirely new programme. There has been a good sale of tickets and a large audience will doubtless be present. The Boston Herald says:

The departure the Gormans have made in their minstrel entertainment was evidently pleasing to the big audience that was present at the opening of the Globe Theatre Monday evening. "The Laughing Sampsons," serves to introduce the principal members of the combination to their specialties. The singing, the dancing and the sketch work of the company are excellent. Indeed, there was not a number on the programme that was not encored. "The Deacon's Dream" and "Tonight in Dixie" are the two numbers which seemed to please the audience most, the former being especially praiseworthy and full of original and taking bits. The Messrs. James, John and George Gorman were heartily received, seen often and always gave satisfaction. Arthur Rigby made a hit in his monologue entertainment. Messrs. John Hyams, Alexander Cameron and J. M. Norcross contributed most acceptably to the vocal part of the programme, and Leyenne, the equilibrist, and Rene, contortionist added much to the general enjoyment.

Handsomely Decorated Interior.

The frescoing at the Central church has been completed and the church will be ready for occupancy as soon as the large auditorium is placed in order. It is expected that services will be held there a week from to-morrow. For about five weeks Marston & Gorham's men have been engaged in decorating the walls and ceiling and they have been successful in imparting to them a very attractive combination of colors, as a Whig reporter observed yesterday. The general ground work is of brown of different shades, and this color with yellow and green are the most prominent shades. The greater part of the ceiling is decorated with a large circle of light and dark brown, surrounded by rectangular spaces of green. The whole effect is pleasing and appropriate to the edifice, and the work is very creditable to Marston & Gorham and their employes. One advantage that the color combination has is that it presents an especially good appearance when the church is lighted up.

During the coming week, the pews will be shellaced and a new carpet will be laid throughout the lower part of the auditorium. When this work is completed the church will be ready for occupancy, and will present a very handsome appearance. It was not long ago that the exterior of the edifice received the attention of the painters much to its improvement. For the present the church will continue to be lighted by gas, but it is possible that before long electricity may be substituted and a sufficient number of lights be put in to thoroughly illuminate the interior and give plenty of light outside at the doors.

The steamer Cimbria was about an hour late yesterday in arriving from Bar Harbor, having experienced a tremendous sea off Mount Desert, the sea breaking over her constantly. The Boston boat was late in arriving, on account of the heavy sea outside, likewise.

THE SECESSION MOVEMENT.

Mr. President, Congress has enacted that if [illegible] of the Government, or any one of the departments thereof, shall combine with any other State or States to oppose the execution of any law of the United States, or any decision of any court of the United States, such persons shall be deemed guilty of misprision of treason, and shall be punished by fine and imprisonment. We, for one of their servants, entertain what they regard as a most dangerous heresy upon this subject, and we do not believe that the Congress of the United States has any power to declare that the citizens of a State shall be punished for treason because they shall undertake to withdraw their consent from the Government of the United States. We do not believe that the framers of the Constitution ever intended that the Government of the United States should be a government by force over the States. We believe that it is a government by the consent of the States, and that the moment the consent of the States is withdrawn the Government ceases to exist. We do not believe that the Government of the United States has any power to coerce a State into submission. We believe that the Government of the United States is a Government of the States, and that the moment the States withdraw their consent from the Government of the United States, that moment the Government of the United States ceases to exist. We believe that the Government of the United States is a Government of the States, and that the moment the States withdraw their consent from the Government of the United States, that moment the Government of the United States ceases to exist. We believe that the Government of the United States is a Government of the States, and that the moment the States withdraw their consent from the Government of the United States, that moment the Government of the United States ceases to exist.
